TILLMAN'S LAW DEAD.

Declared Unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court.

CHARLESTON CITIZENS CELEBRATE

When the News of the Decision Reached That City Over Two Hundred "Blind Tigers" Opened Up, and Liquor is Now Sold Openly.

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 20.—The Tillman state dispensary liquor law has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court of South Carolina, two justices concurring and one (the Tillman member of the supreme bench) dissenting from the opinion. The decision was handed down by Chief Justice McIver, Justice McGowan assenting, Justice Pope (the Tillman justice) dissenting.

The ground on which the law is declared unconstitutional is that it creates a monopoly for the state. Justice Pope filed a dissenting opinion affirming the constitutionality of the law. Justice McIver's decision declares the law unconstitutional in nearly every respect, and practically holds that it cannot be upheld on any vital point. The profit to the state feature is declared vicious.

Trade, the court says, is not and cannot properly be regarded as one of the functions of government. It seems to the court that the question as to the right of the state to engage in any trade or business for the purpose of gain has been practically determined adversely to such right in the recent case of Mauldin against Greenville, a local case, which the court cited as authority.

The only hope of the administration is said to be in securing a stay until June, when a new Tillman justice will supplant Justice McGowan on the bench.

The whisky men are more than jubilant over the decision and whisky is being openly sold in many places in South Carolina tonight.

The friends of the dispensary law are not disheartened, despite the decision of the court. They believe the law constitutional, and that it will yet triumph. Governor Tillman is known to be a man of many resources, and his opponents do not believe that he will yield and close the dispensaries.

The cases in which the decision of the supreme court was rendered were brought under the old law. Governor Tillman can continue the operation of the dispensaries, claiming that the new law has not been declared unconstitutional, though its principle is practically the same as that of the old law. This would necessitate a new suit. Before it could get up to the supreme court there would be a change in the personnel of that tribunal, and a different result might be reached. The federal judge in this state held the dispensary law constitutional in a case brought before him. There is also some talk about an appeal to the United States supreme court.

THE "BLIND TIGERS" ACTIVE.

No Lack of Stimulants in Charleston as a Result of the Decision.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 20.—An hour after the news of the handing down of the dispensary law decision by the state supreme court was received here upwards of 200 blind tigers had miraculously recovered their eyesight and were in full blast. Many of them hung out signs inviting the passersby to walk in and have one with the house, and people were by no means slow to accept the invitation. There was no lack of stimulants in the city, as an immense stock had been laid in when the dispensary constabulary were engaged in the Darlington riot.

The general impression here is that Governor Tillman will call an extra session of the general assembly to pass a new law, and then take it up to the state supreme court, which on July 1 will be Tillmanite in politics by the qualification of Justice E. B. Gary. What will happen in the meantime however, is difficult to say. Since the Darlington episode the whisky constabulary have been comparatively inactive. No raids of either stores or private residences have been attempted anywhere in the state. The force of the constabulary in this city, formerly numbering from fifteen to twenty men, all armed with revolvers and Winchester rifles, has been reduced to three men who confine their attentions to the railroad depots.

The town is very quiet, although whisky may be had at any saloon in the city. This has been the case indeed ever since the dispensary law went into operation on July 1, 1893. The difference is, however, that now mixed drinks and other liquors are passed over the bar openly. The action of the governor is watched here with great anxiety.

Snubbed by Governor Waite.

DENVER, April 20. — Superintendent Deuel, in behalf of the Union Pacific receivers, made a demand upon Governor Waite for protection of the company's trains and property against the industrials who are trying to secure transportation. The governor replied that such an appeal "should come from the authorities of the county or city in which the outrage occurred, and then only after the municipal authorities declare themselves unable to preserve order."

THE NATION'S LAWMAKERS

A House Quorum Flies Away to Attend a Baseball Game.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Yesterday in the senate was almost entirely consumed by a speech against the pending tariff bill by Senator Perkins, of California. The speech was mainly devoted to a discussion of the articles in the bill which directly affected California wool, fruits, quicksilver, beet sugar, etc. although he considered other features in the bill in which his state was not interested but which were opposed to Republican principles, and which he accordingly arraigned. The Peffer resolution for the appointment of committee on communications for the purpose of hearing the grievances of Coxey's army was debated by Senators Peffer and Allen, both of whom favored it, but it went over without action.

The house is making very slow progress with the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill. Almost the entire day was devoted to thrashing over the old straw in the Hawaiian controversy. The test used as a basis for the debate—a motion to cut off the salary of the Hawaiian minister—was defeated when the vote was taken without division. About 4 o'clock half the membership of the house suddenly faded away to attend the opening ball game of the season. The Democrats were unable to produce a quorum, and after a roll call the house adjourned.

Fugitive Prisoners Again Escape.

HAZLETON, Pa., April 20.—Angelo Matz, who escaped from the sheriff two days ago while being taken to the penitentiary to serve a five years term, and his companion, Rosario Stanziola, an ex-convict wanted by the local and government authorities, on charges of burglary and desertion from the navy, appeared in Freeland yesterday, and were chased to the mountains by a deputy sheriff and his posse. The fugitives drew revolvers and, after holding their pursuers at bay for half an hour, escaped. Twenty armed Italians, under the leadership of Joseph Ferri, who is on Matz's bond, are in pursuit, and the local officers look for them to bring in the man dead or alive.

Walcott Defeats Tracey.

BOSTON, April 20.—Joe Walcott, the colored wonder of this city, defeated Tom Tracey, of Australia, last night after one of the cleanest battles ever seen in Boston. No battle for years has attracted so much attention in this city, and fully 8,000 people were on hand when Referee Jimmy Colville introduced the men. Tracey stood a head over the colored man and looked a trifle fine, while Walcott was in great shape the muscles on his arms standing out like whip cords. The battle was warmly contested throughout but in the sixteenth round Tracey was completely knocked out. The fight was for a $1,000 purse.

Mr Gould Purchases the Vigilant.

NEW YORK, April 20.—George Gould has purchased the yacht Vigilant for $29,000. The sloop cost about $80,000 to construct. Mr Gould declares that the boat will be entered in races. Mr Gould's declaration that he was in the racing business may influence Lord Dunraven to change his mind in the matter of taking the Valkyrie home, and induce him to allow her to stay over here and tackle the Vigilant once more. Another match that the Messrs. Gould will probably be called upon to make will be with the Jubilee.

Another Victim of Detroit's Riot.

DETROIT, April 20.—The only showing of animosity by the Polish laborers yesterday was a threatened interference with a gang of pavers, but the Poles scattered when a squad of police arrived. The water board has made no attempt to continue the work which caused the trouble. Andrew Hetnack, who was wounded in Wednesday's row, died last evening. Kubeski and Kupczelmiski may die at any time. Secord Collins is somewhat improved.

An Expensive Forest Fire.

BURLINGTON, N. J., April 20.—One of the most famous forest fires ever known in South Jersey was conquered yesterday. The fire started near Dividing creek from sparks from a locomotive, and burned northward over fifteen miles of standing timber. The loss it is believed, will reach $75,000. Three houses belonging to Timothy Elmer and one of Joseph Passmire were destroyed. The occupants had a narrow escape for their lives.

An Ex-Policeman Seriously Accused.

READING, Pa., April 20.—Bernard Elbert an ex-police officer of this city, had a hearing before Alderman Clemson on the charge of burglary and aggravated assault and battery. Jacob Reed, of Mt. Penn park, positively identified him as one of the men who entered his bedroom and assaulted and robbed him. Reed was seriously injured. Elbert denied the charge, but was held for trial.

A Druggist says.

Marvin C. Brown, Druggist, Meredith Village, N. H., says: I have sold your Sulphur Bitters for years, and, contrary to most medicines, I never sold a bottle to any one who said it did not help them. They cured me of those terrible sick headaches when every other remedy failed.

THE DALTON GANG AGAIN.

PERRY, O. T., April 20.—News was received here by a messenger that a terrible fight occurred about forty miles east of here, near Ewen mountain. The noted outlaws, Bill Dalton and Bill Doolan, and another outlaw said to be Bitter Creek were killed dead on the spot and a woman and her little girl were killed, as also were two deputy marshals.

Marshal Nix, of Oklahoma, has been planning for several days to catch the Dalton gang and Marshal Burrell Cox, with Heck Thomas and Bill Tilghman, of Perry, and a crowd of fourteen deputy marshals, left some days ago for the eastern part of the Cherokee strip in pursuit of them. The marshals met Bruce Miller, one of the gang, and the fight commenced.

This was on McElroy's ranch, fifteen miles this side of Ingalls. Bill Dalton and Bill Doolan were in Ingalls when the fight occurred and went to Bruce Miller's assistance, and a regular fight took place. The messengers left the place of conflict Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, and they report the above. They say that eight persons in all have been killed, and the latest from the field of conflict is that a running fight is still in progress and that it looks very much as though the noted outlaw gang will be swept out of existence.

The price of Bill Dalton's capture, dead or alive, is $5,000 and the price of Bill Doolan's head is $1,500. The best officers of the territory are camping on the outlaw's trail, and at this hour the latest news from the field of carnage is that the Dalton gang is a thing of the past. They have terrorized Oklahoma and southern Kansas for the past four years. Several messengers arrived from the vicinity of Ewen mountain last evening.

A Perseverance of the Big Strike.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 20.—The coal miners' strike promises to be one of the greatest that has occurred in many years east of the Mississippi river. The men employed in the Big Soldier mine at Reynoldsville, Pa., numbering about 1,500, walked out yesterday, and at the same hour the men employed in the Adrian and Walston mines, owned by the Rochester and Pittsburg company, quit work. The men at the Elnora, Beech Tree and Helvetia mines refused to go to work this morning. This puts at least 4,000 men out of work as a forerunner of the big strike which goes into effect tomorrow.

Fell Four Stories.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—William White, foreman of the carpenters employed in the Palais Royal building, at Pennsylvania avenue and Twelfth street, fell from a scaffold four stories above the ground. He fell to the sidewalk, striking on his back in a six foot space between two fences, either of which would have impaled him had he struck it. The board descended upon the head of a colored workman, knocking him senseless. White was able to talk when taken to the hospital, and complained of a pain in his back. He is injured internally.

Senator Vance's Successor Named.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 20.—Ex-Governor Thomas J. Jarvis has been appointed and has accepted the United States senatorship to succeed the late Senator Vance. Mr. Jarvis, after serving in the state legislature and as speaker of the house, was elected lieutenant governor in 1876 on the ticket with Mr. Vance, and when Vance resigned to accept the senatorship became governor. At the next election he was chosen governor by the people. In 1885 he was appointed minister to Brazil by President Cleveland, retiring in 1889.

Stolen Bonds Recovered.

NEW YORK, April 20.—Bonds of the New Castle and Northern Railway company, of Pennsylvania, supposed to have been stolen from Major General James B. Nealey, the president of the company, were found by the police in an old valise in a Madison Square residence in this city. The house was occupied by a man named Mallett, a butler to the proprietor of the house, and who disappeared suddenly. The bonds represented a face value of $50,000, bearing 6 per cent. interest, and maturing in 1921.

Mother and Child Fatally Burned.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 20.—Several children were playing in the yard of George Welgos, at Hanover station, when one of them set fire to the clothing of Mrs. Welgos' infant. The baby was soon enveloped in flames, and Mrs. Welgos ran to the rescue. In extinguishing the fire Mrs. Welgos' clothing caught and she, too, was badly burned. The infant lived only a few minutes, and the mother is probably fatally burned.

The Puzzle Solved.

Perhaps no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately fatal it is among the most nauseous and disgusting ills the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cure of chronic catarrh by any of the many modes of treatment until the introduction of Ely's Cream Balm a few years ago. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising. No druggist is without it.

THE BALL IN MOTION.

The Season of 1894 Opens Under Favorable Conditions.

LARGE CROWDS IN ATTENDANCE.

Washington, Baltimore, New York and St. Louis Win First Round in the Race for the Pennant—Rain Prevents the Louisville and Cincinnati Games.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The Washington baseball team celebrated the opening of the baseball season in a well deserved victory over the Philadelphias. Pleasant weather prevailed and upon the game were present the largest crowds ever seen on the Washington ball ground. Included in the assemblage were a number of prominent people, Washington, naturally, being represented by members of Congress and Attorney General Olney. A number of Philadelphians, among whom was Mr. John R. Reed, the collector of the port, helped to swell the attendance. Prior to the game the two teams paraded the principal streets of the city. Both teams played very well, but Pitcher Esper was so much of a puzzle for the visitors. Pitcher Weyhing, of the Philadelphia club, also did excellent work, but his support was not as efficient as Esper's. The batting of both clubs was good and but three errors were made altogether. The score by innings:

Baltimore Defeats New York.

BALTIMORE, April 20.—There was never such excitement and enthusiasm in Baltimore over the opening of the professional baseball season as that of yesterday. Baltimore defeated New York before 15,000 spectators, Baltimore's high water mark, by superior playing at all points. The score by innings:

New York	0 0 0 0 1 0 0 2 0—3	10	5

Brooklyns Defeated at Boston.

BOSTON, April 20.—Boston opened her ball season with a rousing reception to her team from the throats of 7,000 who assembled in south end grounds. After one of the most uninteresting games Boston defeated their opponents, the Brooklyns. The score by innings:

Boston	0 0 1 5 1 0 3 4 x—14	19	3
Brooklyn	0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1 0—2	5	6

A Victory for St. Louis.

ST LOUIS, April 20.—The League baseball season opened here with a game between the Browns and the Pittsburg team. Although the weather was cold there was an audience of between 3,000 and 9,000 people. The heavy batting of the home team was a feature of the game. Score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	0 2 2 0 2 0 2 0 3—11	16	1
Pittsburg	0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 2—3	8	2

Two Postponed Games.

The games scheduled at Cincinnati and Louisville, where the Chicago and Cleveland clubs were the visitors, were postponed on account of rain.

Arrival of the Ems' Passengers.

NEW YORK, April 20.—The North German Lloyd steamer Wilhelm II, having on board the eleven first cabin, eight second cabin and 189 steerage passengers of the ill fated Ems, of the same line, which was towed into Fayal, in the Azores, on April 2, with a broken shaft, by the tank steamer Wildflower, arrived at her dock in Hoboken yesterday afternoon. The passengers were greeted enthusiastically by the many friends who had gathered on the pier to welcome their safe return. The passengers are loud in their praise of Captain Hankenstein and the officers of the vessel for their "able management of the steamer at a time of extreme peril."

Hattie Welch's Murderer Caught.

GAINESVILLE, Tex., April 20. — John Baldwin, who so brutally assaulted and murdered little Hattie Welch, near here, was caught at Cratham, Young county, 125 miles southwest of here. Feeling runs high, and when Baldwin is brought here by the officers an effort will undoubtedly be made to lynch him.

DOUBLE MURDER IN MARYLAND.

CHESTERTOWN, Md., April 20.—William Jackson, colored, killed George R. Leager and his 14 year-old son Ira on the Round Top farm, a few miles above this city. Leager was a farmer, aged about 45 years. Jackson, who was a farm hand, came to the house after the day's work was over and found Mrs. Leager alone. He threatened her, and when her husband came home she told him of Jackson's conduct. Leager, who was a cripple, ordered Jackson to leave the premises.

Jackson declined, and Leager attempted to force him. During the struggle Jackson got hold of a hatchet and struck Leager a blow with the blade on the head, which killed him instantly. Then he drew a bull dog revolver and shot him as he lay upon the ground. Ira came to his father's assistance and received a ball in the left breast, which inflicted a wound that proved fatal.

Jackson walked two miles to a negro settlement, ate his supper and prepared to retire. He was captured and lodged in jail. Jackson came to this county last January, and claims to be from Pulaski county, Ark. He is reported to have said to the constable on his journey to Centreville that Mr Leager was not the first man he had killed.

Vanderbilts Versus Pennsy.

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 20.—The Pennsylvania Railroad company and the Vanderbilts, with their Beech Creek road, have locked horns, and there are prospects of a bitter fight. The companies have been sparring over certain territory lying north of here, but not until yesterday was war declared. The Vanderbilt people secretly sent out an engineer corps, and a line was located from Mahaffey, in Clearfield county, in which is the western terminus of the Beech Creek road, to Crab Tree, the terminus of the Pennsylvania branch at Crab Tree station. The location of the route gives absolute control of the line for at least two years to the company taking the survey. It is stated that the Vanderbilts will proceed at once to build the road. It will be about sixty-five miles long, running through Clearfield, Indiana and part of Westmoreland counties. It will reach undeveloped coal lands that have not yet been tapped.

The Great Northern Strike.

ST. PAUL, April 20.—President Hill read a joint communication from the American Railway union and the grievance committee of the striking employes yesterday afternoon. He replied that "the company is always ready to receive and hear its employes or their representatives on all matters affecting their relations with the company." The officers of the union announced themselves as in every way satisfied, and promptly sent out notices to the men along the line to come to the conference. When asked whether the men would now return to work President Debs of the union said the officers had no authority to order the men to go out or to go to work, it being decided by the men themselves.

No Charges Against Archbishop Corrigan.

BALTIMORE, April 20.—Archbishop Ireland left for New York last night en route to St. Paul. When spoken to in regard to the statement published in a New York paper referring to the preparation of charges by Archbishop Satolli against Archbishop Corrigan, of New York, to be forwarded or taken to Rome by the apostolic delegate, he said: "I have not read the article, but feel assured that there is nothing in it, as what is attributed to Mgr. Satolli is entirely inconsistent with church methods, and doubtless the coinage of somebody's imagination. So far as I know the school question has not been revived in any way."

Will Join the General Strike.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., April 20.—At a mass meeting here yesterday the miners in the Huntingdon and Broadtop region, although not perfectly organized, resolved upon a general strike to go into effect tomorrow in the event that those in the Cumberland district comply with the recent order of the United Mine Workers' association. A dispatch from Cumberland gives the number of miners who will go out in that district as 500. The 800 men in the East Broadtop district have as yet received no orders, but it is certain that they will join the strikers.

SENATORS ALARMED

Over the Proposed Invasion of the National Capital.

NECESSITY FOR SPEEDY ACTION.

Meantime the Invaders Are Steadily Marching On, Though Kelly's Army, While Well Provided with Food, Meets with a Set Back at Connellsville.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Inquiry develops the fact that senators take a more serious view of the prospective gathering of Congress and others here than the first reports would have indicate. They do not entertain so much apprehension concerning the immediate followers of Coxey as they do on account of the large number of other organizations reported to be moving towards the city, and they think it possible that the large cities of the eastern seaboard may furnish large contingents if it should become apparent that there will be a sufficient assemblage otherwise to make a cloak for pickpockets and thieves. It has also occurred to some of them that the crowd will necessarily contain an unusual percentage of professional agitators, who, being reckless of consequences, may incite the crowd to violence.

Senators who sat quietly in open session yesterday while the Populist senators were discussing the proper method of dealing with the Coxeyites expressed themselves quite freely in secret session, to the effect that immediate measures should be taken by the executive department to meet any of the exigencies which may arise. The opinion is expressed by senators who participated in the executive proceedings that in view of precedents and the emergency that is likely to arise President Cleveland would be justified in issuing a proclamation warning the men now on their way to the city in connection with Coxey's movement that the authorities will be prepared to require the strictest observance of order. The opinion is also freely expressed in the senate and was advanced in executive session that congress cannot afford to and should not do anything looking to the sustenance of the Coxey army while here.

COXEY OFF FOR HAGERSTOWN.

He Will Leave His Army Temporarily to Attend a Horse Sale.

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., April 20. — The Coxey army camped in the rain yesterday. The canal boats that brought the party from Cumberland had hardly deposited their passengers when a drizzle set in that lasted into the afternoon. There was but one tent, and the men sought shelter under wagons as best they could. Later the rain ceased, and Browne and Coxey, on horseback, headed a procession of the army through the principal streets, returning in about an hour to a supper of boiled pork and hard tack, after which there was a large public meeting addressed by the two leaders. The crowd was not very enthusiastic, but cheered Browne's well worn stories, that they had apparently never heard before. Coxey talked on his non-interest bearing bond bill and held the attention of the crowd, some talk of sympathy with the movement being heard among the audience.

Coxey was busy all day making arrangements to secure the fair grounds at Hagerstown for the next camp. He and Browne also had a great many visitors, the most of them curiosity seekers, but one party of women from Martinsburg came with an address of welcome and encouragement. Coxey left with the army for Hagerstown this forenoon, and will leave them there to attend a horse sale in New York, at which he will dispose of some of the stock of his Dixiana farm at Lexington. He will rejoin the army on Tuesday next at Damascus.

Childs, Smith and the veiled lady played another trick on the Commonwealth at Hagerstown, speaking twice without molestation from the authorities, and leaving Coxey and Browne in a rage at the other end of six miles of telephone wire when they found they could not stop him.

KELLY'S ARMY WELL FED.

But They Cannot Ride Out on Trains of the Northwestern Road.

OMAHA, April 20.—The real facts about the presence of militia at Council Bluffs and Camp Kelly, near Chautauqua station, were made public in an interview with Judge N. W. Hubbard, attorney for the Northwestern Railway company. Mr. Hubbard acknowledged that he was responsible for the calling out of the state troops.

"If these tramps and bums try to capture one of our trains there will be trouble," said Mr. Hubbard. "And should they gain possession of a train through any luck or cruelty, or by the sympathies of our trainmen, we will clear the train of its destroyers every car and hurl a lot of men. We will not carry these vagrants for love or money or lie for a while to have them capturing our rolling stock. In the eyes of the law they are lots of cattle who are organized for an unlawful purpose and to prevent the people from being compelled to feed them and move them on to the next state. Why, if we were to carry these creatures [illegible] we would be compelled to [illegible] more people must be [illegible] bulk for their [illegible] The [illegible] restrictions [illegible] at [illegible] Wednesday evening [illegible] Congressman Pickler [illegible] citizens, as well as members [illegible] made addresses. Mr Pickler [illegible] go and called for contributions. Money fairly rained down the steps for several minutes, the aggregate [illegible] a couple of hundred dollars. Besides this a great mass of provisions had been brought in. When the army marches out it will be followed by seven wagons loaded with provisions furnished by the citizens here.

HE HAS CLIMBED THE LADDER.

Governor Brown Has Prospered In Business and Politics.

D. Russell Brown, who has been elected governor of Rhode Island for a third term, is a native of the Wooden Nutmeg State, but has been in business in Providence for upward of 24 years. He is the senior partner and founder of the house of Brown Bros. & Co., the largest dealers in mill supplies in the United States, and honestly a man of the people may be considered a fair illustration of the sort of success that may be achieved in the business world by intelligent persistence on the part even of those who began at the bottom of the ladder.

Governor Brown was born in Bolton, Conn., March 28, 1848. He was a farmer's boy and was educated in the district schools and in academies at Manchester and Hartford. After quitting school he secured employment in a hardware shop at Rockville and at the end of a couple of years was made head clerk and salesman for a big Hartford firm, where he remained till 1870, when he went to Providence to take charge of the mill supply house of Cyrus White.

Within a few months Mr. Brown formed a partnership which bought Mr. White's business and carried it on for seven years under the firm name of Butler, Brown & Co. Upon the death of the senior partner, W. C. Butler, in 1877, Mr. Brown, in company with his brother, H. Martin Brown, and Charles H. Child, formed the present firm.

In 1874 Mr. Brown married Miss Isabel Barrows, and they have three children—one son and two daughters. Their home is one of the prettiest in Providence, according to the comprehensive idea of a lady scribe, who says: "It is a very large house, fitted with statuary, bric-a-brac, bookcases, fireplaces and rugs." Mrs. Brown is an exceptionally well informed woman and is very active in charitable work, besides entertaining a great deal.

Governor Brown is deeply interested in the charitable, social and educational institutions of Rhode Island and is a member of almost every society in the state that has for its object the encouragement of any particular branch of art, science, literature, historical research or athletics, besides many Republican organizations and various Masonic societies.

HE KNOWS ABOUT RAILROADS.

James D. Yeomans' Qualifications For Interstate Commerce Commissioner.

James D. Yeomans of Sioux City, who succeeds Judge McDill on the interstate commerce commission, is a practical railroad man of many years' experience. He is a native of New York and was born in Cattaraugus county April 21, 1843. After getting a fair high school education he began active life in the railroad business at 17 years of age, first as an office boy and then as a brakeman on the New York and Erie railroad. He was rapidly advanced to the position of superintendent, serving some time in each of the subordinate grades.

During the war he ran trains for the government military operations in Georgia and other places in the south. After the war was over he became interested in the construction of the Buffalo, Philadelphia and New York railroad and afterward became superintendent of that road. In 1870 he became a member of the railroad contracting firm of

Five years ago Mr. Yeomans was prominently mentioned in connection with the office of superintendent of public works in New York, but he went to Sioux City to attend personally to his property interests before the appointment was made. He has been engaged in farming and stock raising on an extensive scale near Sioux City ever since. Two years ago he was elected to the state senate, and during the last session he was chairman of the committee on railroads.

Commissioner Yeomans is a man of large physique and fine personal appearance and is very popular with his colleagues of all political parties. He has long been a personal and political friend of President Cleveland and Postmaster General Bissell.

LIKE THE WHISKY INSURRECTION.

The recent lamentable outbreak in South Carolina against the enforcement of the celebrated dispensary law will probably take its place in history beside the Bradford whisky insurrection in Pennsylvania, which, it is worthy of remark, reached its climax and was suppressed in 1794, just a century ago. The circumstances of the two outbreaks are similar only in that both were caused by excise regulations, but they seem to unite in reenforcing the fact that an excise law is no more popular in the United States than it was in England when Blackstone said its very name was odious to the people and Dr. Johnson splenetically defined it as "a hateful tax adjudged by wretches hired by those to whom excise is paid."

GOVERNOR TILLMAN

The dispensary law was adopted at the suggestion of Governor Tillman as a compromise measure which it was supposed would end the strife between the Prohibitionists in the state and at the same time materially increase the public revenues. Its enforcement by every means at his command was to have been expected from a man of Governor Tillman's characteristic vigor and determination.

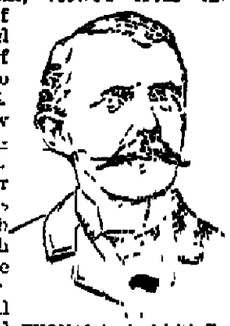
Governor Tillman is primarily a farmers' governor. He is a farmer himself and the idol of the farmers of South Carolina. He made his first political reputation about 10 years ago by stumping the state in opposition to the agricultural department as then conducted and succeeded in having matters reformed to suit him. Two years later he went over the state again advocating the establishment of an agricultural college and again he was successful. Then the Farmers' Alliance suggested him to the Democratic convention for governor, and he got the nomination and was elected and two years later was nominated and elected again in spite of vigorous opposition within the party lines.

Governor Tillman prides himself on being one of the common people and used to be called the "one gallus" candidate because of a phrase he used in one of his speeches to the miners: "I am one of you, a one gallus boy like the rest." He is a bitter opponent of rings, officeholders, monopolists, capitalists and all operators, as he understands them and denounces them all in scathing and unmeasured terms. He is about 50 years old and had the misfortune to lose one of his eyes by an accident during his boyhood.

THE NEW PUBLIC PRINTER

He Has Held the Office Before and Is Prominent In New York Politics.

One of the best positions in the gift of the president, viewed from the standpoint of patronage and profit, is that of public printer, to which Thomas E. Benedict of New York was recently appointed. There are over 2,000 employees connected with the office, which does not come within the purview of the civil service law, and THOMAS E. BENEDICT. although the salary is only $5,000 a year there are supposed to be many commissions and rebates on the purchase of material, of which the incumbent may take advantage, to the great augmentation of his income.



Mr. Benedict was public printer during President Cleveland's first administration and now succeeds F. W. Palmer, the man who five years ago succeeded him. In the interval he has been a deputy in the office of the New York secretary of state—from which he retired on the expiration of his term at the beginning of the year. He has been quite prominent in New York state politics and was an aspirant last fall for the Democratic nomination as secretary of state, but failed to secure it.

Warwick, Orange county, was Mr. Benedict's birthplace, and he was born in the year 1839. He received an academic education and taught school for awhile, but soon got to work as a bookkeeper in a medical office. He had a taste for printing and was a somewhat liberal contributor to the local papers even before he moved to Ulster county in 1863 and started the Ellenville Press, of which he made a very successful paper. His brother, C. H. Benedict, was interested with him in The Press, and in 1870 the firm purchased The Ulster County Gazette, a weekly, which circulation they managed to extend considerably.

In 1879 Mr. Benedict was elected a member of the legislature and was afterward re-elected for four successive terms. At the end of his legislative service he was appointed deputy state comptroller, which position he held when he was first made public printer. In Albany Mr. Benedict formed a friendship with Mr. Cleveland, then governor, which has been maintained ever since, and to which his appointment as public printer is said to be due.

In the early days of the republic the government printing was done by contract. In 1852 the office of superintendent of congressional printing was created. In 1876 the office was changed from congressional to public printer and the present system was organized. Mr. A. M. Clapp was the first public printer, and he was succeeded by John D. Defrees and Sterling P. Rounds.

An oil barrel, in which there was about five gallons of kerosene, exploded, and the roof of the building was blown about twenty-five feet in the air. Hungry Crows Invade a Village.

The Warwick Dispatch says that, last Friday, a flock of crows, fifty or more in number, unable to obtain food in their accustomed haunts because of the thick body of snow that covered the ground, invaded the village, alighting in the middle of the road at the upper end of Oakland avenue, and feeding on scraps of food that had been thrown out for the robins. Hunger had made them so tame that when wagons passed they only rose for a moment or two.

THE SOLITARY FIFER.

He Was the Only Remnant of a Gorgeous Reception Committee.

"I guess ex-Senator Dick Oglesby of Illinois never forgot a reception tendered him at Lincoln, Ills.," said R. L. Matheny of Springfield. "Lincoln was comparatively a new town and growing very rapidly, the citizens believing that it was destined in an early time to be larger than Bloomington, Peoria or Springfield. The Democratic politicians of Illinois were divided on Richard Oglesby, candidate for governor, was billed to speak there. Labor to prepare for the reception in order to surpass all other towns. First a band was got, then the old soldiers on foot with fife and drum, forming the escort of honor, and the distinguished guest, the principal carriages and on foot were the several processions. Every vehicle in the place had been engaged, even an express wagon that operated between the depot and city. Even the hack that usually conveyed passengers from the depot to the hotels was put into requisition, and the express wagon took its place that day. The only thing that was lost sight of was to obtain information of the fact that the train changed time on that day and came in two hours earlier than usual.

"It came in, and two passengers alighted—Hon. Richard Oglesby and a Methodist preacher. They were placed in the express wagon and started for the hotel. The master of ceremonies for the day heard of it in some way and immediately notified the leader of the band, who was a performer on the fife. That worthy lost all judgment, and not seeing any of the other musicians ran up the street until he espied the express wagon. Then making a profound bow to the governor and preacher he walked in front of them, and with a dignified step guided them up the street to the tune of 'Behold, the Conquering Hero Comes.' The governor was too angry to ever tell it, and the citizens of Lincoln kept it a profound secret, but the Methodist preacher enjoyed it and never tired of relating how he and the governor of Illinois were escorted to the hotel by a solitary fifer."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Hetty Green as a Belle.

While credit must be given Mrs. Hetty Green for wonderful shrewdness and business sagacity in building up her fortune, it must not be forgotten that she had a good start. When her father died, he left her $9,000,000 to fight the battle of life with. It was more money in those days than it is now. He was an old whaler and shipping merchant of New Bedford named Edward Mott Robinson. He married a Miss Howland, and the full name of Mrs Hetty Green is Harriet Howland Robinson Green.

She was her father's private secretary for four or five years before his death, and in this way she acquired a knowledge of business matters Old Robinson was frugal and economical to extremes, and among the lessons early impressed upon the daughter's mind were economy and simplicity in daily life and the value and virtue of money.

Before the war began Mrs Green, at that time Miss Hetty Robinson, the heiress spent several winters in New York and was almost a belle in society. She had considerable beauty of a robust sort, and her family and fortune were certainly irreproachable.

She lived for a time in a boarding house on West Twenty-second street, and when she went to parties would walk from there. It is related that rather than pay cab fare she used to pull a pair of heavy stockings over her street shoes and tramp through the snow to a reception or ball, pulling the stockings off when she arrived and spreading them out somewhere to dry.—New York World.

Thought He'd Need Them.

"When I first visited Kansas City some years ago," said Manager Tom Davis, "I found on the table in my room at the best hotel a box of poker chips. I had just come from a trip through New England, where a Bible is almost invariably a standard piece of furniture, and this new layout rather staggered me I called a bellboy and told him somebody had forgotten his poker chips

"'That's all right, mister,' said he. 'They belongs here.

"'I thought perhaps somebody forgot to take them away after last night's game,' said I

"Then he looked at me curiously a moment and said he guessed I'd need 'em.

"I said I guessed not

"'You don't look like a preacher man,' says he

"'I'm a circus man,' said I.

"He nearly fainted."—New York Herald.

Some Old Trees.

In the park of Tortworth court Gloucestershire, the seat of Lord Ducie, is the celebrated Spanish chestnut, which is said to have been the first tree that was ever planted in Great Britain by man. This chestnut is now over 12 feet in diameter and was an old tree in the reign of Stephen. The Darley yew of Derbyshire is about 1,550 years old, while the Ankerwyke yew, near which the Magna Charta was signed, is about 1,100 years old, the yews of Fountains abbey existed at its founding, some 700 years ago, the yew tree of Portugal churchyard is said to be the oldest tree of its kind in the world, and the Greendale oak of Wellbeck, through which in 1724 a way was cut and a carriage and four driven through, is about 1,500 years old.—London Million.

Falstaff puts upon another feature of the animal's character, so detested by all wakeful sleepers in towns. "'Sblood! I am as melancholy as a gib cat!" When Mercutio longs for a fray with Tybalt, he accosts him "Good king of cats, I would have nothing but one of your nine lives. That I mean to make bold withal, and, as you shall use me hereafter, dry beat the rest of the eight," and thereupon receives that celebrated "scratch" which was "not so deep as a well nor so wide as a church door"—New York Sun.

A. E. NICKINSON, Business Manager

FRIDAY, APRIL 20, 1894.

Representative Hines, of Pennsylvania, has a simple plan for checkmating Coxey. It is to appropriate $10,000 for the improvement of the roads of the District of Columbia; and he predicts that not $500 of it will be spent, for he says that Coxey's army of road makers will scatter to the four winds of heaven as soon as they see roads to build and know that there is money with which to pay for their business.

Seven cases of small pox are reported, to-day, in Albany penitentiary. The patients are all isolated, every inmate and employe of the institution has been vaccinated and the whole prison has been fumigated, but despite these precautions there will be more cases of the disease. Many Middletowners are in the penitentiary and their friends will naturally feel much uneasiness concerning them until the prison is rid of the plague.

In the Onondaga Court of Sessions, Tuesday, the Justices of Sessions, or side judges as they are usually called, asserted themselves, exercised the power given them under the law and overruled the presiding judge in fixing a sentence. The case was one in which a man named Waite had pleaded guilty to four indictments for selling obscene prints. The Judge wanted to impose the full penalty, $1,000 fine and a year's imprisonment for each offence, but the side judges thought $250 fine sufficient for the four offences. There was a very evident wrangle during the conference over the sentence, and Judge Northrop, the presiding judge plainly lost his temper at his associates' unexpected assertion of their right to express an opinion as to how severe the sentence should be. As a concession to the Judge, the justices agreed that a year's imprisonment in the penitentiary should be made part of the sentence, but they nullified this concession by stipulating that this part of the sentence should be suspended during good behavior. In pronouncing sentence Judge Northrop, with very bad grace, referred to the fact that he had been overruled by his associates, and expressed his regret that he could not have imposed the full penalty.

The Republican majority in the State Senate is as unruly as the Democratic majority in the United States Senate, and is making the same kind of ducks and drakes of its party's plans and prospects. The four Senators, Coggeshall, Donaldson, Reynolds and Owen, who voted with the Democrats, Wednesday, and defeated the bill making the Sheriff of New York a salaried officer and abolishing all fees, defend their course on grounds of public policy, but in the cases of some of them it is freely intimated that they were seduced from party loyalty by corrupt influences. Mr. Donaldson makes no secret of the fact that he voted as he did to get even with Senator Saxton, whose leadership has been irksome to him ever since Saxton, as he alleges, broke faith with him, and passed a bill affecting his district, to which he (Donaldson) was opposed. It is believed that other partisan measures, for the passage of which Republicans have been striving all winter, will be bowled out by the disorganized Republican Senate, and the Platt Senators are expected to vote against the amendment tacked on to the Metropolitan Police bill by the anti Platt majority in the Assembly. So complete is the Republican disorganization in the Senate that ex-Senator Sullivan is able in taunting the Republicans in the Assembly, yesterday, declaring that in passing party measures they were merely sending them to the "slaughter house of the Senate."

LIGHTNING IN THE SENATE CHAMBER.

By Local Press.

ALBANY, April 20.—Just as the Senate adjourned, to-day, during the height of a rain storm, a bolt of lightning entered the Senate chamber by way of the shaft of the big chandelier, hanging from the center of the ceiling of the chamber. The fluid darted from a hundred incandescent burners and there was a loud report, which brought Lieut. Gov. Sheehan running from his private room into the chamber, followed by a number of Senators. Those in the chamber at the time experienced light shocks.

A GREAT PLAY.

The material in "Blue Jeans" is homely. So, too, is the poetry of Burns and Riley. What makes "Blue Jeans" a great play is its wealth of touches of nature, that makes the whole akin. Its characters are living, breathing men and women to be met along the green lanes of Rising Sun and fair day. To those who have lived in the country in which they exist they are old acquaintances. "Blue Jeans" is sensational and intensely realistic at times, but it is natural. Its most striking characteristics are its wealth of picturesque pastoral scenes. We are not only told a peculiar, live story of country town folk, but are made acquainted with pretty much every one in the village. The saw mill scene of the play is responsible for the impression that "Blue Jeans" is a ponderous and gory melodrama. Far from it. Artistically the play could easily get along without that intensely thrilling effect. "Blue Jeans" is as healthy a specimen of pure comedy as ever started out on a mission of amusement. The half dozen quaint characters sprinkled through its enactment, the bull, horse, dog, barbecue, band of village "Rosers," bumpkin quartette, "leading society lady," and singular "minister" are only a few of the features attesting the rich possessions of its laughter-provoking elements. At the Casino, to-morrow evening.

CHICKENS THIEVES ARRESTED.

Captured With the Fowls in Their Possession—They Confess—Taken to Circleville to be Arraigned.

A gang of chicken thieves have been working the towns of Mount Hope and Wallkill for some time past. On the 13th of this month about fifteen hens were stolen from the hennery of S. S. Mapes, of the former town, and the Mount Hope Thief Detecting Society offered a reward of $25 for the arrest and conviction of the thief or thieves.

Parties who live at the Summit, in this city, have long been suspected of complicity in these robberies, but evidence against a chicken thief is hard to obtain, unless they are detected red-handed.

A watch, day and night, has been kept on the suspected parties by Mr. Frank Romer, his father, and Officer Theodore Wood, with the result that, this morning, three men were captured, each of whom carried a basket of fine poultry,—dressed.

They were given a preliminary examination before the Recorder. They were all utterly unable to remember where they obtained the chickens or how they came into their possession.

Later, however, they agreed to pilot Constable Faulkner to the farm house, where they obtained the fowls which proved to be that of Ira Harding, in the town of Wallkill. They had broken the lock on the door of the chicken house, which makes the offense burglary.

This afternoon, they were taken to Circleville to be arraigned before Justice Shaw.

The men gave the names of Collins, Carr and Space. The latter lives with Collins's mother at the Summit.

Two of the fourteen chickens stolen were sold to Andrew Brown for $9.40.

BOY BURGLARS IN NORWICH.

T. S. Baker's Drug Store Entered and Robbed—The Young Thieves' Attempted Escape.

At an early hour, Monday morning, the discovery was made that the drug store of T. S. Baker, in Norwich, had been entered by burglars and robbed of six dollars in change, a silver watch and 150 packages of cigarettes.

The theft of the cigarettes caused Mr. Baker to believe that the burglary was the work of village boys, and remembering that he had seen Clifford Houghton, a young lad with a most unsavory reputation, hanging about the store the day before, he went with Under Sheriff Brennan to Houghton's home, roused him from sleep and soon elicited from him a confession of guilt. He handed over the watch and $1 85 as his share of the plunder and gave the names of Charles Greene and Frank Lewis, each of whom is nineteen years old, as his accomplices.

Officer Brennan, thinking a warrant necessary before making an arrest, went to the police justice to secure one, and while he was absent Houghton slipped around to the houses of his accomplices, notified them that their crime had been discovered and that they must seek safety in flight. A fourth boy, Lewis Crandall, was also routed out and the young bandits left the village, striking cross the country in the direction of Preston.

As soon as their flight was discovered telegrams were sent in all directions and Officer Brennan soon struck their trail and at 8 o'clock overtook them and arrested them. They were taken back to Norwich and locked up for examination.

The afternoon session began at 1 o'clock and most of the time was devoted to listening to an address by Rev. Mr. Ford, who is a missionary in Syria, in which he gave a history of missionary work in that country.

The society will meet at Port Jervis in October, and at Goshen, next April, for their annual meeting.

A YOUNG GIRL'S FORTUNE.

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter, Blanche, now 18 years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and she positive that for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 104 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she is at school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could purchase for our daughter the health Dr. Miles' Nervine has brought her.

"When my brother recommended the remedy I had no faith in patent medicines, and would not write to him, but as a last resort he sent us a bottle we began giving it to Blanche, and the effect was almost immediate."—Mrs. E. R. Bullock, Brighton, N. Y.

A NEW SUN MOTION.

Professor Stevenson Has Completed a Wonderful Invention After Years of Labor.

Professor E. E. Stevenson, a well known educator and writer of Quincy, Mass., announces the completion of an invention on which he has been laboring for years, which, he says, will revolutionize the present methods of obtaining motive power. Professor Stevenson has pursued his investigations and experiments in Quincy all winter and has at last brought his idea to a head. Professor Stevenson said: "The forces which have thus far been utilized by the genius of man are the laws of gravitation and chemical reaction. In the broad field of research and investigation we find the possibilities of the future in molecular attraction, musical vibration and the refraction of light.

"To understand the theory on which I have been laboring you must understand the correlation of forces or the transmutation of energies. We use force to produce light. It is upon the reverse of this theory that I have labored, and my experiments are at last proving satisfactory. I have found that the heat of an ordinary kitchen stove generates energy sufficient, if controlled, to drive the machinery of the Pillsbury mills, and the flames of a Dunson electric burner would furnish power to light by electricity 1,000 lights."

In Professor Stevenson's experimental machine, however, the heat of the sun alone has been used. This machine consists of three brass cylinders connected by means of tubes and valves with a glass reflector behind the central cylinder. A piston moving laterally connecting with a balance wheel gives the motion. The shaft on which the balance wheel hangs passes through the end of the machine and contains a drive pulley, which makes the force available. This machine is operated by the sun, working with great rapidity.—Boston Journal.

SOMETHING IN THIS NAME.

But the Man Whose Property It Is Wishes He Had Not Recalled It.

The mystery that has been surrounding the identity of David Draughn has been solved and in a way that is likely to give David much trouble. Draughn was several weeks ago dragged from the railroad tracks in the south end of the city just in time to save him from being mangled. It was then discovered that he had been beaten almost to death. He was carried to the Grady hospital, and when he recovered physically it was found that his mind was a perfect blank as to past events—so much so that he even did not know his own name.

Finally under the care of the surgeons there came back inklings of the past, and one day last week he electrified everybody about the hospital by rushing about and declaring he "had it." He had caught what he said was his last name. He was taken by detectives up into North Carolina, and at Culberson, near Murphy, he found friends, but he was not Draughn, at least not there. He had been known there as Dr. F. D. Heath and had lived there for several months last summer, but Heath and Draughn are one and the same man, and it developed that under the former name he has three living wives. One lives in Salem, No. 2 in Asheville and No. 3 in Bryson City, Va. His mother, Mrs. Frank Barr, the wife of a printer, also lives near Salem. He will be prosecuted for bigamy and is very sorry he has found out who he is.—Atlanta Cor. St. Louis Republic.

A Loaded Farm.

For many years a sandy mound on the H. A. Maize farm, just south of this city, has been known as the hiding place of the fox. This winter the animals have been unusually numerous and created havoc in the henneries. The losses became so great that the farmers held a meeting and decided to blow up the mound and rid themselves of the pests. A large quantity of dynamite was purchased, and four large charges were put into the ground. For some reason the fuses failed to discharge the explosive, and the stuff is now buried in the mound. The mound is one of the most productive spots on the farm, and as the farmer does not know just where the dynamite lies he is in a pickle to know what to do, as he is afraid to dig into the mound for fear he may strike the stuff and send himself to kingdom come. The owner of the farm insists that the dynamite must be found, as he realizes that the fact of it being buried on the farm is going to hurt the sale of the farm or forever render several acres of his best land valueless.—Wooster (O.) Dispatch.

Hot In Australia.

The weather in Australia during the antipodean summer has been unusually hot and oppressive. In Adelaide during January the thermometer several times registered over 100 degrees in the shade, and one day it climbed to 107 in the shade and 163 in the sun. In Melbourne the 100 notch has been reached more than once, and the scorching north winds have made the atmosphere exceedingly oppressive. The foregoing figures are from weather observatory readings, and probably do not represent by several degrees the temperature of the city streets.—Melbourne Letter.

Marriage on Trial.

A romantic marriage occurred recently at Fulton, 25 miles from this city. Adolph Ekas and Miss Alice Mahoney were the contracting parties. It was agreed by them that they would try married life a year, and if found disagreeable to either he or she was at liberty to withdraw from married life, notwithstanding what the other had to say.—Paducah (Ky.) Dispatch.

A Flourishing Community.

The Little Sisters of the Poor, who conduct the Mount Carmel old ladies' home, derive from its city pay that the city is not only paying them $60 a month for the support of the inmates, but is actually saving a nice little sum out of the appropriation. Last year the city paid the sisters $720 in the form of a warrant, which they promptly sent back to the treasury, with a request that it be returned to the poor fund.—Logansport Tagblatt.

DAY'S BLAZING ORB.

Sir Robert Ball on the Substances of Which the Sun Is Made.

Let us see if we have the necessary data for ascertaining what the solar material must be. We are first confronted with the fundamental question as to whether it is likely to be composed of elements found on the earth. There was a time no doubt when it might have been urged that in all probability the solar elements were so far different from any bodies known to terrestrial chemists that the solar clouds must be constituted of something altogether beyond our cognizance. But this view cannot be sustained in the present state of science.

Nothing is more remarkable in the recent advance of knowledge than the clear demonstration of the fundamental unity between the elements present in the celestial bodies and those elements of which the earth is composed. It is no doubt true that we have found grounds for believing that there may be one or two elements in the sun which we do not find here.

We have indeed assigned to these dimly discerned elements the hypothetical names of coronium and helium. But even if such bodies exist at all they are certainly wanting in the essential qualities that must be attributed to any element which purports to be the active component of the photospheric clouds. There cannot be a reasonable doubt that the sun is mainly composed of elements both well known and abundant on the earth. It is clearly among these known bodies that it is our duty to search for the characteristic photospheric material.

As the terrestrial clouds consist of water they are derived not from a simple element, but from a composite body formed of the gases—oxygen and hydrogen. The multitude of compound bodies is, of course, innumerable, and the task of searching for the solar constituents would therefore seem to be an endless one, unless we were in some way enabled to restrict the field of inquiry. This is just what the vast temperature of the sun permits us to do. It is well known that at a heat resembling that at which the photosphere is maintained chemical compounds cannot in general exist. Ordinary chemical compounds exposed to temperatures of such elevation are instantly resolved into their elementary components. It is thus manifest that in the endeavor to find the photospheric material we have not to scan the illimitable field of chemical compounds. We have only to consider the several elementary bodies themselves.

Thus at once the research is narrowed to a choice among some 64 different materials, this being about the number of the different elementary bodies. Most of them have already been actually detected in the sun, and it is very likely that the others do really exist there also in some part or other of the sun's mighty volume.—Sir Robert Ball in Fortnightly Review.

As the Boy Saw It.

A Detroit business man was making some purchases at a Woodward avenue fruit stand the other evening when he saw a street gamin take an orange and coolly saunter off. There was no occasion to raise a row over it, but the gentleman felt it his duty to follow the boy and observe:

"I saw you hook that orange, my boy. It isn't of much value, but if you begin this way where will you end?"

"I never took it," he stoutly replied.

"Oh, but I was looking full at you."

"I say I never took it."

"There it is in your pocket."

"That's a ball."

"Let me see."

"Oh, well," he spattered as he worked the orange out, "this is allus my luck. I never git hold of anything on the sly but some great big duffer comes along and wants his whack. Here's your half, and now it's only fair for you to steal some peanuts and divide."—Detroit Free Press.

A Numerous Court.

The court of the emperor of Russia, says one of the St. Petersburg papers, consists of one chief chamberlain, five chief court masters, one chief gentleman of the table, one chief hunting master, one chief court marshal, one chief carver, one chief stable master, 35 court masters, 17 stable masters, six hunting masters, one director of imperial theaters, two chief masters of ceremonies, eight assistant hunting masters, nine assistant masters of ceremonies, 173 chamberlains, 240 assistant chamberlains, 21 court physicians, 28 court priests, 10 ladies in waiting, four ladies of the bedchamber and 180 assistant ladies in waiting. It is well that the czar is one of the wealthiest men in the world, as the list is rather a long one to support.

A Philanthropic Woman.

Mrs. Mary Hemingway, who lately died in Boston, provided by her will that the entire net income of her estate, which is estimated to be worth $15,000,000, shall be devoted by her executors for a period of not more than 15 years to the furtherance of certain causes in which she was interested. Those causes she names as follows: First, educational work in Boston and vicinity; second, the historical and educational work connected with the Old South Meeting House; third, the study of American archæology. She bequeaths a valuable farm in Massachusetts, known as the Lowry farm, to the Hampton (Va.) Institute, founded by General Armstrong.—Boston Commonwealth.

A Future For Him.

"Things are pretty slow now," said the czar to the minister of police.

"Yes, your majesty, I know of but one matter which is likely to be brought to your attention. It is the case of a man who threw a bomb at your majesty and broke a window a block away. He wants to be released."

"He expects a great deal."

"He says he will reform. He thinks he can go to America and get a place as a baseball player and lead a better life."—Washington Star.

THE COMMON COUNCIL.

PROCEEDINGS OF LAST NIGHT'S REGULAR MEETING.

Merchants Want North Street Paved at Once—A Combination of Brick and Asphalt Ordered—A Brick Pavement Ordered Beyond the Erie Tracks on North Street—The Soldiers' Monument to Be Removed to Thrall Park—To Do Away With the Grade Crossing at Genung Street—Other Important Business Transacted.

The Common Council held its regular meeting, last night, all the members being present.

Mr. W. H Rogers presented a petition of property owners on North street, between Franklin Square and the Erie tracks, asking that Council proceed at once with the work of paving that street

WANT NORTH STREET PAVED AT ONCE.

Mr. Rogers spoke in support of the petition. He said the condition of the street was so well known that it was unnecessary to describe it. The street had been in such a condition for many months and trade had been diverted from it, the public had been inconvenienced, accidents had occurred and for days at a time it was almost an impossibility to cross it The property owners had been patient considering that they long ago asked that the work be done.

The property owners had mentioned asphalt as their choice of paving several months ago. Objections may be urged against it, but there will be objections to any form of paving. It would be better to go ahead now without trying new plans. If longer delayed the street will remain as it is all summer.

Strangers coming to the city get their impressions from the condition of the main thoroughfares.

It had been argued that there is no appropriation for permanent work, but there is sufficient in that fund now to do the work

President Dorrance said the Council had already taken cognizance of the condition of the street, and had taken the necessary action preparatory for the work, and would begin as soon as possible. The survey and specifications had been prepared by the engineer, and connections are being made.

Engineer Smith said he could lower the grade six or eight inches at one point on the street. He said a catch basin should be put in at the carpet bag factory. The question of the disposition of the Belgian blocks now on the street should be settled before the work is commenced.

Mr. Rogers wanted to know if proposals could not be advertised for at once.

The President said he knew of no reason why they could not.

Engineer Smith said the question of grade must be settled first.

Mr. Rogers: "We do not like to wait indefinitely."

Mr. Geo. B. Adams said he had paid $375 for what he had had, but he hadn't much yet. He said his experience with brick was that it was too noisy for North street. In Olean the water from the sprinkler dries quickly on brick pavement and it becomes dusty. Such conditions would not do for North street. He hoped the Council would see the importance of acting quickly and he believed that he voiced the sentiment of the people of the city, when he asked for prompt action. The detriment to business interests by the present condition of the street, can not be estimated. He admired brick but would not now change the order from asphalt.

The President said two weeks would be required to advertise for proposals, but the Council would have the pavement laid as soon as possible.

ANOTHER PETITION TO PAVE.

W. E. McWilliams asked leave to withdraw the petition to pave from the railroad track to Wickham avenue depot and presented another from seventeen property owners on North street, between the Erie tracks and Wickham avenue, asking that the street be paved with asphalt blocks or vitrified brick.

Geo. A. Swalm said he preferred asphalt to brick He knew that it had been in use in Buffalo for twenty years and was still in use

Mayor Stansbury said he did not believe any asphalt had been laid over ten years in Buffalo.

Mr. Swalm said he had been told by the President of the American Radiator Co, of that city, that some asphalt was laid twenty-three years ago Mr. Swalm also said he thought the railway track was laid too high.

THOSE BELGIAN BLOCKS.

On motion of Mr. Reed the city attorney was directed to draw up a paper for property owners on North street to sign, surrending their right to the Belgian blocks to be taken up, and the street committee was directed to procure the signatures

THE SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

On motion of Mr. Reed the order [illegible] North street with asphalt, [illegible] Nov 1, 1894, was amended [illegible] the Electric [illegible] Co. to pave its portion [illegible] street with brick, the asphalt [illegible] brick are moulded [illegible] to the Thrall Mr [illegible] voted against the amendment.

Mr Mance moved that the clerk advertise for bids for the North street pavement and that specifications for the work be printed in duplicate. Carried.

BRICK PAVEMENT BEYOND THE ERIE TRACKS.

Mr. Sinsabaugh offered the following which was adopted:

Resolved, That North street, between the Erie crossing on North street and Wickham avenue, be paved with vitrified brick in accordance with the specifications of the city engineer, and that one-third of the cost of said improvement, after deducting the payments, to be made by the Middletown and Goshen Traction Co. as they are required to to pay, be paid by the city of Middletown, and the balance of the cost to be assessed against the property abutting on the street.

On motion the clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for the work.

On motion of Mr. Baldwin it was ordered that the electric railway company be required to relay the asphalt paving on James street within twenty days.

THE SOLDIERS' MONUMENT TO BE REMOVED.

On motion of Mr. Reed it was ordered that the Soldiers' Monument be removed to Thrall Park; that the Clerk advertise for proposals to do the work, and that L. S. Wisner superintend the removal.

On motion of Mr. Greene the balance of $225 in the steam heat fund was made available for the removal of the monument.

On motion of Mr. Sinsabaugh the engineer was directed to see that all pipe connections be made on North street beyond the railroad track within ten days.

On motion of Mr. Bowler the Water Commissioners will be requested to lay iron pipe on Wickham avenue.

It was ordered that the Highland avenue sewer be commenced as soon as the plan is adopted by the Sewer Commission.

On motion of Mr. Greene the extension of Prospect avenue to Washington street was accepted.

On motion of Mr. Sinsabaugh the street superintendent was allowed one dollar per day until Nov. 1st for the use of a horse.

TO DO AWAY WITH A GRADE CROSSING.

A petition asking that the Erie Company be compelled to build a roadway under its tracks at the Genung street crossing was read, and on motion of Mr. Mance the Mayor was authorized to require the company to do the work.

The petition of residents of Prospect avenue to grade that street was taken from the table and referred to the Street Committee.

A petition for the straightening and grading of Charles street was referred to the Street Committee.

A petition for a grade on East Main street, from Grand avenue to Horton street, the flagging and curbing on both sides and the construction of crosswalks at Prospect avenue and Ridge street was placed on file.

On motion of Mr. Reed, the order for a sewer on Sprague avenue was rescinded, so far as it applied to the construction of a sewer from Catharine Casey's to Washington street. The order now only applies to that portion of the avenue from Washington street to Fulton street.

After auditing the following bills, the Council took a recess until Monday night, to complete the budget:

Sudden Death of Mrs. Shelley—Personal and Local Notes.

Her husband wanted to stay at home with her but she said it was only a headache and told him to go to work He did so and when he returned for dinner she was lying on the floor unconscious. Dr. Stearns was called at once and found her in such a bad condition that he thought best to call another doctor, and accordingly Dr. Drake was telegraphed for and all was done that medical skill could do. She, however, remained unconscious till Sunday afternoon, when she died. Her husband is very despondent over his loss, they having been married only fifteen months. Vandals Defacing a Church.

The members of Grace Church, in Port Jervis, have been very much annoyed of late by vandals, who have apparently set about to deliberately deface the building. A beautiful ivy vine has been torn down several times, and a raised cross on the corner stone has been nearly all hacked away.
